PRESS RELEASE

For Immediate Release

ORGANIZATION OF HOMEOWNERS ASSOCIATIONS EXPANDS STATEWIDE

Charles Town, West Virginia, January 1, 2019

To meet the growing needs of many West Virginia homeowners living in homeowners associations (HOAs), the West Virginia Organization of Homeowners Associations (WVOHOA) serves HOAs in all fifty-five West Virginia counties.

WVOHOA's mission is sharing information by increasing knowledge of homeowners needed to understand how to conduct the business of an HOA. It is a non-profit, membership-based organization designed to draw together insightful, active, and civil discussions among HOA homeowners, individuals and businesses. Education sessions and seminars featuring professional speakers focus on topics related to the preservation and protection of the homeowner's investment made in the purchase of their home. The Organization provides video meetings online and preserves an archive of past meetings. Some of the issues discussed are proposed legislation, property tax and tax appeals, common area property, fiduciary responsibility, law enforcement, governing documents, and insurance and liability.

Founded in 2009 in Jefferson County, the Organization expanded across eight counties of the Eastern Panhandle with interest from thousands of homeowners wanting to learn and understand the unique governing documents of their own community. Education sessions are well attended and high demand for this information has resulted in the Organization's desire to serve the entire state.
